TEN RUNS IN ONE INNING

Feat Accomplished by Robinson, Chery & Company's Team.

Saks & Company's Nine Ralited Too Late-Might Have Done Better II Game Had Not Been Called.

The game of baseball between the reprebentatives of the two well-known clothing houses, Robusson, Chery & Co. and A. Saks & Co., at the Capital Park yesterday interested and enthugiastic friends of the players and the firms they represented Despute the fact that it threatened rain every minute for more than an hour before the was started, the lady rooters were out in full force, and made up nearly half of

At the close of the second inning the score stood 4 to 3 in layer of the Bobinson, Chery & Co. boys.

In the third the manager for Saks & Co. ngain put up Hammond, and it was this error which lost them the game. During this maning fourteen of the Robinson, Chery & Co. men had a chance at the but and with letance of untimely errors by the Saks boys pounded out ten more tailles. This eventually settled the game, for it was evident, from the appearance of the weather that nine judius could not be played, for even during this iming the game was stopped for a short while on account of the rain. In their half of the third Saks & , secred only once and it was plain to se that it was with great difficulty that any aks & Co.'s boys by this time had notled themselves together, and at the end of the fifth invince had added three more runs to their score, when it commenced to rain

Moran received a letter from Presideat N. E. Young, of the National League, regretting the mapossibility of his being present and witnessing the game. It is known that Mr. Young is on the lookout for (Special to The Times.) Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.-The special train bearing the Wachington ball club and party to this city, was detailed this morning over two hours near Wilmington by a had wreck of a freight train. Charley Abbey, the blonde-haired center fielder, who has been playing in hard lock lately, was the first snoozer to waken in the curty dawn and discover that something was wrong with the transportation.

In stirring about he aroused Crooks and informed him that the train was standing still on account of a smast-up ahead

Jack thought Abbey meant their train was in trouble, and groaned. "I knew it tast night," said the stocky guardian of the Senators' keystone posiion, "I felt when we entered this sleeper with Elba on the sides that something would go queer. Remember 'Elba' was the name of the ill-fated ship that carried so many to untimely graves." And with this reminder Jack dived under the pillows for the treasured rabbit foot and quickly set to work to invoke the imagined boodoo. WAGNER'S SPECIAL TRAIN.

It looked for a time as if the track would not be cleared soon enough for the special to pass and reach Philadelphia for the morning game and Mr. Wagner ordered another train, which was sent, but not used, as about the time of its arrival the trackmen succeeded in making a passage. Philadelphia was reached two hours late, but in time to bustle for breakfast, get on uniforms, and out to the park by

A little chit chat about the Senators will probably suit your taste as an entree to the stery of how this morning sgame was played gind lost.

Manager Schmelz will leave in the morning for New York to complete his arrangements about the "Texas Steer," which money making comedy he will guide along its sual histrionic and financial pathway next season. Our Tim Murphy is in Philadelphia to-day confabbing with Mr. Wagner and the genial Gus about the play and everything will be in shape after Schmelz's New York trip.

But probably such gossip as this belongs to the dramatic man, only the opportunity could not be passed to talk a little stage stuff where so many home folks and baseball from this place to Louisville, where the Senators go, Mr. Earl Wagner will have charge of the boys and see that they do the proper thing all along the line-that includes three beatings for Louisville.

Manager Schmeiz will resume the reins early next week, and Mr. Wagner will take it easy at home. The club is not in the best shape for the tour of the prov-inces. Joyce's hand is swelled way up and he will hardly be able to get into the game this week. Cartwright has a lame game this week. Cartwright has a lame arm, and McGuire has a hump on his shin bone that is camel-like.

THE BEST THEY CAN DO. Crooks is sore from the spiking Jennings gave him, and Selbach's finger twinges all the time, yet all of them, except Joyce, are playing the best they can, and Joyce would go in to-morrow if the management thought it best. By careful nursing the lajured members, however, the boys think they will pull through without phy-ing hospital dues, and win at least half of the games abroad.

They want to win them all, but they can't do that. By the way, Crooks has a new ratbut foot, a left hind one, tied with pink ribbon. It was sent him on the eye of his departure from Washington by a 25,000 fans, but it was exasperating to the management of both clubs. At the most conservative estimate the Philadelphila Club lost $5,000, and the Washington team owners 2,000 "plunks," as our mutual friend Hassamer would say. Everybody was going to the game, and the players were auxious for another

The Senators are not a bit afraid of the Quakers, and they don't like to have a game stopped between them.

"We had a cinch," said Glusscock on coming lack in the 'tus after the second game had been called off on account of the

"That's right," said the other toga

IT WAS A GOOD GAME. As for the game this morning it was a good one, and the 9,006 people present were given a run for their money from the start to finish. Boyd did the twirling for the Senators and did it well. He was not batted as hard as the score shows. At critical stages he was very effective and in one dangerous inning he struck out Delehanty and Torner. The umpire had nothing to do with it, only to call them strikes after they had missed the swings of the bat, but Boyd lost the game for all thus wings of the bat, but hoyd has the grant of all that.

That is, he gave the Quakers the winning than it is the grant of th

run in the eighth by presenting Hamilton with a base on halls and then, with two out, dropping Carewright's toss of Boyle's tap; still he could have saved the run had he not fired the ball against the wire netting in the effort to catch Hamilton at the

When Boyle hit, Hamilton started for third from second, which he had stolen, and on Boyd dropping the ball he headed for home. He made it and it turned out to be the winning run of the game.

Mercer played third base and proved hiniself a good infielder. His running catch of Hamilton's fool in the first inning was a special feature. Boyd was very slow in the box and the contest was long drawn out.

Morray umpired a splendid game and Morray unipred a spienous game and institled the prediction that he is a conter in that line. The Senators failed to score until the seventh. All along through the game up to that time they sandwiched hits with hard linek and couldn't get a man around.

In the seventh, however, they did business with Mr. Taylor. After McGuire hit a hard liner to belehanty, which he held because it was so hot it stuck, Glasscock singled and Crooks scored him with a drive that got through Hamilton and rolled to the force. CLEAN STEAL OF THIRD.

Crooks reached third and trotted home on Abbey's two-bagger. Abbey then made a elean steal of third and tallied on Selbach's long fly out. Three runs and the score a Mercer popped one up for Buckley and it was all over for the imning.

In the eighth, Sam Thompson destroyed all hopes of the Senators scoring by making a ptenomenal catch of a beautiful frive from Cartwright's bat. The side was retired in one, two, three order in their half of the The Phillies commenced the game by singing the ball, but Boyd would saw them off when a bit meant a run. They regis-tered a tally in the third on Cross' single, Delehanty's hit, and McGuiro's bad throw second to catch Del.

Their second run came in the fifth on Boyle's single, Thompson's base on balls

STOPPED OVER TO-DAY.

Phillies Want Another Go at the Senators Before They Depart.
(Special to The Times.)
Philadelphia, July 4.—So great was the disappointment of the people and the management of the Philadelphia club over the postponement of the second game with the Senators to-day because of rain, that Mr. Wagner was requested to hold his club over to-morrow and play the game prior to the clob's departure for the West The prospects were that a record-break-ing crowd would gather, as this morning's intest made the Senators great favorites with all. Mr. Wagner considered the propo sition and wired the management of the Louisville club, requesting that their Sat-urday game be postponed unit sunday, when the club could play two games.

The Louisville management granted the request, so the Senators will play here to-morrow afternoon. The club will pass through Washington en route to Louisville Saturday morning.

'TWAS TUTHILL'S FAULT.

Umpire Alloweda Trapped Balla Fair Catch and the Giants Won. New York, July 4.—This morning's game between the New Yorks and Baltimores was called at the beginning of the eighth inning on account of rain. The game was without doubt the snapplest played in this city this season. Umpire Tuthill's decisions caused no end of trouble. His failure to allow Robinson a hit he made in the sixth inning which Van picked up and the umpire allowed a fair catch cost the Orioles the game. Pond, in the absence of Brodie,

NICE COAT OF WHITEWASH Men's Summer

W. L. I. Team Played Hide and Seek With the P. O. D. Nine.

Departmental League Gave Two Games-The Last Year Champions Defeated the Triumvira.

There were two departmental games at National Park yesterday, both of which were well attended. Although three games were announced the one scheduled for 4.30 o'clock, between the Pension Office and Washington Light Infantry teams was for feited to the latter by Capt. Jeager's nine, who failed to put in an appearance.
The lovers of the national sport were not disappointed, however, for they got a good quarter's worth of amusement, and spent a most enjoyable day. The morning game between the Washington Light Infantry and the Postoffice Department nines alone was well worth the price of admission.

Although it was a miserable exhibition on the part of the mail handlers, the Infantry nine played the game of their lives, and succeeded in giving the Postoffice the first coal of whitewash in the history of the Departmental League.

The score was 27 to 0, and Barnum & Halley's circus, as an amusement, was nothing compared to the show that was in progress during these nine innings. The soldier boys had their opponents at their mercy from beginning to end and each inning seemed to introduce some new specialty by the Postoffice in their frautic

With the exception of Kalfasand Thompson the whole mail handling combination lost their heads and fielded like a crowd of school boys. On the other hand it was a pleasure to see the Infantry handle both the ball and the stick. Their side of Everybody knew his business and kept a level head. Gleason pitched an excellent game and Giroy's catching was as good as usual. Phil Wisner played that old-time third base, Bully Wisner played that old-time third base, Bully Wisner proved an immense success at short and Winkleman was a good second base. While Winkleman, Gilroy and Shreve led the batting, the whole team's stick work was above the average.

Best Game of the Day The afternoon game between the Dis-trict Commissioners and the Treasury Department teams resulted in a victory for the last year champions. Although it was a sort of an uphill struggle the game was far more interesting than that in the morning. "Tubby" Dickinson's colts were in exellent form, and from the very beginning played the game like veterans, while 'Father" Keller's lucky "finds" to be greatly troubled with "that tired Brooklyn, N. Kennedy was in good shape and held the hard blitted. a new one, who relieved him in the lat-ter part of the game, proved also quite a mystery. "Tubby" was in his glory and caught them both in a very credita 2 ble manger, Nimpo Jones received a pain ful "spike" wound in his leg during the early part of the game; nevertheless, he covered second base in excellent style. Harris showed a great improvement at short, and Donovan was in the right place at first base. "Tubby" and Boyd led at first base. Barrows played a great game at second base, making several difficult catches. Mills occupied the box, and had he received the proper support, he would have stood a good show for the game.

Maize was way off at third base, Gavin missed a couple of easy ones at first base, and Farrell was slow on the throw. The
